

What does it mean to be female? Jan 26, 2020

Sometimes being in a group of only females frees women to become more outspoken in today's time.

The institution of church can be hurtful toward women. Sometimes inclusive language moves backward within the church.

Gentleness can be a strength not a weakness.

Sometimes men talk first and are listened to more. Sometimes women say something but are not listened to. A man can repeat the same thing and be heard.

The discussion this week centred more on what women are. The previous week seemed to focus more on what men were not.

The Mennonite church has dictated what women should be. This now seems to be changing.

What are we doing now? How can this church be a safe place?
