

99 Clutter-Free Gift Ideas

The numbers are a retailer's dream, but a consumer's nightmare. The average American will spend \$1,250 this holiday season on gifts, travel, and entertainment.

These numbers might be acceptable if the gifts we were buying and the possessions we were accumulating were actually increasing the happiness in our lives. But that's not the case.

Over half of us will receive unwanted gifts this year—a staggering $16 billion wasted on unwanted gifts! Eighteen percent of gifts are never used by the person who receives them and 4 percent are immediately thrown into the trash!

The reality is that our homes are already overcrowded with clutter. In fact, the average American home has 300,000 items inside it. The thought of adding more layers of stuff on top of it? It's all too much.

What then can we give that won't add to the clutter problem?
